OPHELIA

Ophelia moved to HongKong in 2014 to settle in Asia. It is after spending her childhood in the USA and France than she decided to go on a half year backpacking tour throughout various asian countries, where she found herself filled with new emotions that will push her design work to the next level.

Ophelia loves to sketch and does so while traveling.

The illustrator started a collection of “Carnets de Voyages” (Travel Sketchbooks) where her drawings highlight how Asia is with no contest a great source of new inspirations. It is where she developed that astute eye, seeing unusual and various beauties when melting her imagination and knowledge with those atypical surroundings.

Her strong passions for History of Art and Minority Cultures make Ophelia able to recall moments from the Past, giving her works a deeper touch through powerful meanings. Not someone who can stick with only one passion, Ophelia studied both Fine Arts and Fashion in Paris. The integrity and elegance of her work come from her background in pedigree-high Fashion Houses, where she started to work as a textile designer. When she settled in Hong Kong, Ophelia worked few months as freelance illustrator before starting MERAKILYA.
